Fr. Florimund Carlu, CICM, arrived in Baguio on October 5, 1913, succeeding Fr. Seraphin Devesse, CICM, as pastor of Baguio. Fr. Carlu transformed the two mission schools founded by Fr. Devesse in 1911 into important centers of Catholic education in Baguio City, with the help of the Missionary Canonesses of Saint Augustine (known then as the Belgian Sisters and now as ICM Sisters).

In 1913, three Missionary Canonesses of Saint Augustine (Srs Marie-Lutgarda, Marie-Octave, and Marie-John) came to Baguio upon the invitation of Fr. Carlu to help him manage the schools Fr. Devesse earlier founded in Session Road and in Campo Filipino.

In 1915, the little mission schools were officially called Saint Louis Schools in honor of Saint Aloysius Gonzaga, the patron saint of young people and students. The year 1915 marked the opening of the trade school and the grade school in Campo Filipino under Fr. Carlu, and upon the suggestion of Mother Superior Marie-Ambroise.

In 1921, Saint Louis started its first year high school course.

In 1928 Saint Louis offered its complete secondary department with a total of 130 students.

In 1929, the Saint Louis Trade School near the Baguio Cathedral was used to accommodate the growing number of students and was expanded with new buildings and henceforth called Saint Louis Center. Thus, by this time there were two Saint Louis School campuses—each offering complete elementary and high school courses.

In 1935, Saint Louis Campo changed its name to Holy Family College until 1952, then reverted to Saint Louis Campo in 1953.
