The faculty in-service training was mostly workshop-based and aimed to improve the department's operational processes and develop outputs that will significantly help ensure NSTP students' social involvement and valuable learning experiences. A highlight of the workshop is the evaluation of the integration of the 17 United Nations Sustainable Development Goals (UN SDGs) into the NSTP 1 and NSTP 2 syllabi.

Saint Louis University for years has been aligning its activities with the CICM Advocacies: Justice, Peace, Integrity of Creation, and Indigenous Peoples' Advocacy (JPIC-IPA), which are also captured in the 17 Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). On July 22, 2022, an appreciation meeting with the faculty members and heads of the Department of Religion and the National Service Training Program (NSTP) was held to revisit the learning packets that will be used for the Academic Year. The revisit aims to ensure that the University sustains its commitment to the CICM Advocacies and the 17 SDGs.
