The research titled “The Lived Experiences of Non-Working Mothers in the Women’s Empowerment Program of a Catholic Higher Education Institution” explores the impact of a women’s empowerment program at Saint Louis University (SLU) on non-working mothers. It highlights how the program empowers women by providing educational and economic opportunities, fostering gender equality, and enhancing their socio-economic status. By focusing on the lived experiences of these women, the research contributes to promoting female participation in underrepresented subjects and fields.
