

SAINT LOUIS UNIVERSITY

SLU, the largest Catholic university north of Manila, continues to pursue Missio et excellentia--empowering globally competitive, socially responsible graduates since 1911-- ensuring that wisdom builds purposeful greatness.

SLU'S MISSIO ET EXCELLENTIA

From its humble beginning as a one-room elementary school in the City of Pines accommodating only ten local boys, Saint Louis University (SLU) was able to carve its mark of excellence, not only in our country, but also globally.

The University's performance in different licensure examinations, its achievements in various national and international rankings and accreditations, as well as its exemplar alumni here and abroad all tangibly prove SLU's dedication to academic excellence that is coupled with missionary values.

SLU's excellent quality education has been consistently accompanied by its adherence to Catholic Mission. This endeavor essentially embraces the University's social involvement, its fidelity towards promoting the copious Cordilleran culture, and its pursuit of the sustainable development goals. As such, students, faculty, and staff are ushered toward the institution's interrelated core values of competence, creativity, social involvement, and Christian spirit.

After more than a century of assisting the realization of its students' dreams, of improving its programs and services, and of leading a purposeful existence, SLU maintains its resolute commitment to Missio et Excellentia.

Saint Louis University, as an institution of higher learning, has proven a record of excellence in instruction, research and extension, including the University's quality of school management. SLU has also drawn attention worldwide for its cultural and artistic talents, with award-winning performances locally and internationally. The tradition of institutional quality in SLU comes from the presence of effective systems and mechanisms in the entire university organization.

SLU's passion for academic excellence by the CICM mission of improving the condition of the marginalized and those vulnerable to social exclusion. Its academic excellence is missionary in orientation, in that it is aligned to the CICM work of evangelization, that is, of the Christian way of promoting a better quality of life.

In 1911, Saint Louis University was founded by Fr. Seraphin Devesse, a priest of the order of the Congregatio Immaculati Cordis Mariae (CICM).

For over a hundred years, from a one-room elementary school in Baguio City for ten local boys, SLU has essentially grown to be one of the biggest universities in the Philippines that has been nurtured and molded by the CICM.
