SLU SUNFLOWER PEDAGOGICAL AND DEVELOPMENT CENTER: SUPPORTING STUDENT-MOTHERS AND WOMEN EMPLOYEES

The SLU Sunflower Pedagogical and Development Center (PDC) serves as a valuable support system for both student-mothers and women employees of Saint Louis University. The center provides a safe and nurturing space where young children can engage in supervised play and developmental activities while their mothers attend classes, perform teaching duties, fulfill work responsibilities, or participate in other university-related engagements.

Through this initiative, SLU demonstrates its commitment to quality education, employee welfare, and responsive support services. By helping mothers balance their academic, professional, and parental responsibilities, the University creates an enabling environment where women can continue their educational and career pursuits without compromising the care and well-being of their children. This service reflects SLU's dedication to fostering an inclusive and supportive community that empowers women and promotes equal opportunities for both students and employees.
